Einstein Seeks Seclusion As Death Takes Wife

PRINCETON, N. J. (Spl.)—Asking only that he be given "privacy in his grief," Prof. Albert Einstein, famous physicist, mourned here the death of his faithful wife, whom he saw death take away Sunday.

This week-end the scientist was still bowed in sorrow.

The world at large knew of Frau Elsa Einstein's death when a death certificate was filed here. A supplemental filing later on told of the funeral Monday in the little cottage where the famed scientist and his wife made their home. Cremation was in a cemetery near Trenton.

Except for the most intimate friends of the Einsteins, no one knew of the death. For nineteen years of their married life, Frau Einstein shielded her husband from admirers whose attentions interrupted his labors.

Mrs. Einstein had been ill a year, suffering from heart trouble.

3 Scientists Defy Nazi Ire

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (JTA)—A sensation has been created here by the disclosure that three eminent German scientists and a publishing house have dared the wrath of the Nazi regime by issuing in Munich, cradle of the Nazi movement, a new edition of their standard work on race in which it is asserted that the average Jew is more intelligent than the average German.

The authors are Prof. Erwin Bauer, Prof. Eugen Fischer and Prof. Fritz Lenz, acknowledged leading authorities in this field of science. The book is entitled "Menschliche Erblehre und Rassenhygiene" (Law of Inheritance and Racial Hygiene) and its publisher is Lehmanns Verlag.

The result of research work undertaken by the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute the volume, of which this is the fourth edition, the third having been sold out after publication ten years ago, has always been regarded as a standard work on the subject.

National Group To Advise J.N.F.

NEW YORK (Spl.)—A National Advisory Council of the Jewish National Fund has been formed and will begin functioning immediately under the chairmanship of Maurice Levin, president of Hearn's Department Store. The function of the National Council will be to cooperate with the National Administration of the Keren Kayemeth in this country in the task of arousing American Jewry to a full realization of the decisive importance of the Palestine land problem to the speedy upbuilding of the Jewish National Home. The Council will hold its first session on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 27, at the Hotel Astor here, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Jewish National Fund.

Priest, Rabbi Differ On Bias

WASHINGTON (NCJC) — A round table discussion on religious tolerance and the religious training of children at the Langley Junior High School here evoked a difference of opinion between the Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., and Rabbi Morris S. Lazaron as to whether tolerance was increasing or decreasing in the modern world.

Father Ahern supported the affirmative position by citing the growth of tolerance in the United States and in other countries. Rabbi Lazaron emphasized the oppressions in foreign lands as an indication that, on the contrary, intolerance was growing. Dr. Edward C. Higbie, president of Wilson Teachers College and presiding officer, declared that, in his opinion, "intolerant acts are not more frequent but more conspicuous than tolerant ones."

Expulsion To Madagascar Is Cuza Suggestion

BUCHAREST (JTA) — Jewish circles were disturbed this week by a program to expel Jews to Madagascar and bar them from trade and commerce in Rumania, offered to the senate by Prof. Alexander Cuza, head of the anti-Semitic National Christian Party.

Before offering the program Dr. Cuza launched a violent attack on the Jews, predicting that they "will soon be treated everywhere like once in ancient Egypt when they were put to the hardest labor."

His program, as presented to the senate, follows:

1. Expel all the Jews to a remote island, preferably Madagascar, a French possession, since the French premier is a Jew.
2. Jews not to hold state or public utility positions.
3. Jews not to be accepted in the army.
4. Jews to be barred from professions, trade and industry.
5. Jewish real estate to be confiscated.

When Senator Jakob Niemirower attempted to reply to Prof. Cuza, he was shouted down with cries of "Shut up! Speak in your synagogue!"

Madagascar Haven Viewed
WARSAW (JTA)—Poland, casting about for likely outlets for her surplus Jewish population, has approached France on the possibilities in that connection of Madagascar, her protectorate off the south-east coast of Africa.

The French Government, following inquiries of its Madagascar officials, is understood to have informed Poland that in view of climatic and other conditions, the island could absorb only a few hundred immigrants.

According to the advices, Madagascar is willing to admit that number of immigrants, but on condition that they are not restricted to Jews.

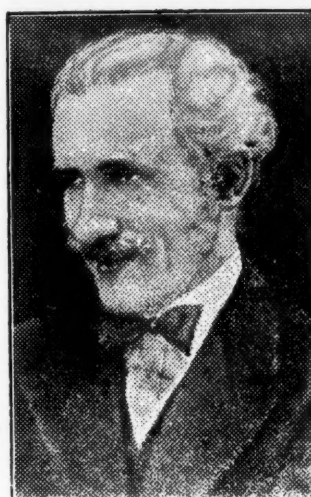

JEWISH TROOPS LEGALIZED
PRAHA (JTA)—The authorities have legalized the British Hachavil, right-wing Zionist semi-military organization.

3 Flogged, 214 Arrested As Jews Fight Sabbath Law

PARIS (JTA)—The Jewish community of Tripoli was reported in a ferment this week after 214 Jews had been arrested and three Jewish leaders flogged into unconsciousness by order of the Italian provincial authorities for keeping their stores closed on Saturday, the Jewish Sabbath.

A huge crowd witnessed the whippings in the public square of the North African city, it was reported here. A German Jewish refugee, Dr. Pinner, who protested was immediately arrested and will be deported. Two other Jewish leaders sentenced to flagellation escaped the punishment when a doctor certified that their health would not permit physical torture. The arrests and floggings were

Arrives For Concert

TOSCANINI

First Concert Set Dec. 30th

JERUSALEM (JTA) — Arturo Toscanini, famous conductor, arrived here by plane from Italy last week to prepare for the inaugural series of concerts which he will conduct for the Palestine Symphony Orchestra of 65 exiled Jewish musicians from Germany.

The maestro was accompanied by Bronislaw Huberman, noted violinist and founder of the orchestra.

The orchestra's premiere under Toscanini's baton is scheduled for Dec. 30. Arrangements have been made to broadcast the concert from the Edison Theatre here, throughout the Near East and possibly throughout the world. Toscanini is scheduled to conduct the first four concerts.

AVUKAH CONVENTION SET
CLEVELAND (Spl.)—American Jewish student youth will come here December 30 to January 2 for the twelfth annual convention of Avukah. Zionist youth from forty-five Avukah chapters will assemble to deliberate on current problems of Zionism. The organization has chapters throughout the United States.

Joint Campaign "Not Considered" Is Word In N.Y.

NEW YORK (Spl.)—The possibility of a joint campaign for European and Palestinian purposes has been definitely eliminated for 1937, it is understood here by fund leaders of both the Joint Distribution Committee and the United Palestine Campaign.

A combined campaign is "not even being considered" one of the leaders of the two groups who asked that his name not be used declared, "There is no chance whatever for a united drive next year," he said.

Although sentiment away from New York and the Atlantic Seaboard is for a united campaign and the elimination of duplicated efforts and expense, no one of responsibility in New York is giving the idea any consideration whatever. The thought of joining the United Palestine Campaign and the Joint Distribution Committee has never been given any serious study. Unless the situation changes radically it will be years, this correspondent feels, before a united drive will be held.

One of the most important factors against a joint drive is the big increase in funds raised by both groups. That this year has witnessed an increase in every kind of endeavor, economic and philanthropic too, is of no moment, since the fact remains that in a year of separated drives, both groups realized something close to 300 per cent increases in campaign funds.

Short-Wave To Broadcast to U.S.

BERLIN (Spl.)—Embarking on a more ambitious short wave propaganda program for consumption of the United States and Canada, the Nazi station DJD, whose waves are directed at the Western Hemisphere, will broadcast a New Year address by Reichminister Dr. Paul Goebbels at 6:30 p. m., EST Thursday, Dec. 31.

Dr. Goebbels' address to the United States will inaugurate a propaganda program of the shrewdest type designed to secure favorable reaction for the Nazi regime. Every month now the German short-wave station will direct a special regional broadcast to various parts of the U. S. The first program will be transmitted in January when New Yorkers will be singled out for special attention. In February the program will be arranged for the Pacific Coast and in March for New England. Later programs will cover the entire United States, it was said here.

The special program to Texas in commemoration of its Centennial received such favorable comment that the Propaganda Ministry decided on a continuation of this type of broadcast.

In catering directly to the United States, Nazi Germany has set a new example in short-wave propaganda. No other nation has ever attempted so ambitious a program. There is no known way of offsetting short-wave programs.

The Editor's Chair

Among the other irritations of being an editor is the provoking habit of Jewish leaders of swearing Jewish reporters to secrecy whenever they divulge news of national moment. Last week I heard so many important items that I feel ready to bust. I heard the new developments on that secretarial position left open by an unfortunate death, how both candidates, mentioned some time ago by this paper, had been eliminated—one because of internal jealousy, and the other because he declined the offer. And the man who will surely get the position, is known to me, but unfortunately, dear reader, I am not at liberty to tell you his name. His initials are H. G., and he's head of an important national body right now.

One thing I did hear, which no one was at pains to hide, was the remarkable change in fortunes of the Jewish Publication Society, since Maurice Jacobs had taken over secretaryship of the organization. In fact praise of Mr. Jacobs reached me from more than one quarter, and all were enthusiastic about his ability and energy.

I spent a very pleasant few hours recently in the office of the National Farm School at Philadelphia, where Mr. Herbert D. Allman, gracious and unselfish president, showed me how candidates to the Farm School are selected. Almost 200 future farmers are trained on the Farm School's 1,300-acre campus, outside of Philadelphia, where they are studying farming on a practical and scientific basis. These former city youths refute for all Jews of America the anti-Semitic accusation that Jews are not tillers of the soil. And every year fifty of the finest trained farmers in the nation go out into the farmlands of the United States to do the same constructive job for American Jewry.

J.N.F. Adds National Organization

HERETOFORE the only national organization giving consideration to Jews in the hinterlands of the United States has been the Joint Distribution Committee and its "Planning and Scope Committee," composed of Jewish leaders in communities stretching across the nation. This statement is true despite the decision of the Zionist Organization of America last spring to break down its autonomy, heretofore centered in New York City, into a district plan which would give the remainder of the United States representation in its governing board.

But now the Jewish National Fund, which raises money for the purchase of land in Palestine, announces the formation of a "National Advisory Council to cooperate with the National Administration in the task of arousing American Jewry to a full realization of the decisive importance of the Palestine land problem."

Like other national organizations, the Jewish National Fund has practiced the theory that the Garden of Eden and New York City were the two places closest akin to heaven and that in the distribution of brains and energy New York Jewry were given ninety-nine per cent of the "grey matter," 100 per cent of the leadership, and probably about 200 per cent of the speech-making ability. But now, the Jewish National Fund has reached the conclusion that Jews of other cities have an uncommon understanding of local, national and world Jewish problems and have been straining to give of their time and talent and also of their speech-making to the betterment of the position of the Jew.

So well has the plan of the J. D. C.'s "Planning and Scope Committee" worked out, that at the recent meeting in New York, Atlanta, Ga., Pittsburgh, Dallas, Tex., and St. Louis were given representation on the board of directors, and leaders of Philadelphia, Washington, D. C., Baltimore, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Seattle, Wash., and Los Angeles were reelected as board members.

Always the one organization to which Jews of all persuasions have contributed liberally, the Jewish National Fund will now discover that it has never reached the United States other than the Eastern Seaboard, with the efficacy which a logical appeal such as theirs should have. According to the announcement the "National Council is to be convened from time to time for the purpose of considering plans and taking action on special proposals as will wide the scope of Keren Kayemeth educational and fund-raising projects."

It is this paper's belief that, although the J. N. F. realized more money from U. S. Jewry in the past year than in any other year, it will now find an even greater reception not only because of their recognition of other communities, but also because they will avoid the mistakes of the New York leaders and their very queer and fallacious impressions of what is what in the United States.

No One Will Ever Know

THERE is no consolation in the world today for Albert Einstein. Scientist that he is, today he is downed in grief. Later his emotional despondency will give place to the same resignation which all of us who are strong find after time has elapsed.

Einstein's plan for seclusion evidence the depth of his sorrow. The mate who worked with him for nineteen years is gone, and he is left alone to carry on. His death will not be so terrible as his life. He must go on living.

But in grief, Einstein has with him, Jews of the world. And not only Jews of the world, but all thinking people, who saw in Mrs. Einstein that sacrificing, self effacing wifehood that has enabled the woman to whom a home for her husband and the advancement of his interest were second to no other consideration.

Society's debt to Mrs. Einstein will never be known. There is nothing Einstein can do or say that will make the world realize how much his wife meant to him in his success as a great mathematician and a greater physicist. Only he will know. And today he knows this more poignantly than ever.

New York Jews Sprouting Wings

BECAUSE of their refusal to head pleas for succor and because of their refusal to support and join synagogues and other organizations, New York Jews have become in the past five years the despised element of American Jewry. Even New York Jewish leaders and rabbis have spared no calumny in describing their compatriots. But now it seems that New York Jews, resenting the aspersions on their loyalty, their charity, and their interest, are going out of their way to acknowledge their fealty to Jewish causes, if not to Judaism.

Indications of this reawakening are not lacking. Only a few weeks ago, the Joint Distribution Committee announced that 40 per cent of the sum it has raised this year throughout the United States had been donated by New York Jews. The campaign quota had been $3,500,000 and $2,649,587 had up until that time been raised. Almost half of this sum was secured in New York.

Then the women's division of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies announced this week that it had already topped its quota of $400,000 had raised in fact, $430,000 and intended to keep right on soliciting towards the joint $3,000,000 goal.

For New York these two facts are astounding. What is happening? Is the showing due in toto to the betterment of the economic situation, or is there really a renaissance in Jewish affairs? Or is it a combination of both?

Whatever the underlying causes, it is evident that New York City did quite as well as Jews of the more highly-thought-of parts of the nation. And were not these sections amenable to the same worldly factors as Jews of New York?

So New York Jews are definitely inclined to a more serious interest in Jewish life and affairs. It is really enheartening. If now synagogue affiliation in New York will show a comparable increase over the pitiful showing of the past decade, then once again will this great center of Jewish population take its rightful place as the great center of Jewish life.

Some Jewish Fraternities Incubate Leadership

DURING the holiday season practically every national Jewish fraternity in the United States will hold its annual convention. Three or four days will be given over to joyous reunion of old friends, to merrymaking, drinking, dancing and discussion. New officers will be elected, and plans for the coming year will be presented and voted upon.

As in past years, many of the fraternities will elect their officers, have fun, and go back to their various campuses, prepared for another inane year of social achievement, and social climbing.

But in other fraternity conventions there will be a different atmosphere. There will be a realization that their year and their work must be tied up with Jewish affairs, Jewish interest and Jewish study, if they wish to contribute something substantial to their members and to the Jewish community.

One of these fraternities will be the Phi Epsilon Pi group. Encouraged by the planning of such men as Abraham L. Sachar, head of the National Hillel Foundations, and Maurice Jacobs, general secretary of the group, and secretary of the Jewish Publication Society, Phi Epsilon Pi embarked last year on a definite program of Jewish education and interest. Definite outlines for individual chapters along lines of Jewish activity and study were adopted. This year, according to present plans, more intense plans for Jewish activity have been laid. Another group which last year delved into Jewish affairs for a part of its work was Sigma Alpha Mu. In many of their chapters, German refugees were accepted, taken care of, and made comfortable in their new surroundings. Phi Alpha last year pledged $1,500 for the Youth Aliyah movement. So that where once the only Jewish aspect about many Jewish fraternities was their title, now Jewish college youths of wealth and ability are devoting their time, effort and money to activities of specific Jewish interest.

If Jewish leaders cared to, they might interpret this wealth of fine, incipient Jewish leadership of the next decade into renewed Jewish life and organizational activity in the United States.

Says Old German Anti-Semites Had Merit Of Being Frank

To the Editor:

In the "Memoirs of Count Bernstorff," recently published by Random House, New York, 1936, we find a very interesting article concerning anti-Semitism in Germany.

In this article written in 1932, von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States during the World War remarks:

"Anti-Semitism has always existed and always will exist, so long as there are people wanting in humanity, who attach more importance to depreciating the peculiarities of others than to developing their own personalities to the highest attainable point. I have always detested anti-Semitism, not merely because in the course of a long life I have had many loyal and trusted Jewish friends, but because as a politician, I see in anti-Semitism a weakness, and one that I have always regarded as involving the sin against the holy body of politics. Anyone who starts a competitive struggle in the belief of his own inferiority, will inevitably be defeated. The ultimate effect of anti-Semitism is to inspire feeble souls with the fear that the small Jewish minority might establish a spiritual, political and economic domination over us. The German nation plunged into the abyss owing to its own political blunders, and is still laboring under its own political inexperience, but apart from that is found in body and mind. Are we afraid of our Jewish compatriots' brilliant gifts? Were it not better to use them to the full in the service of our nascent Republic, which needs all available forces to rise like a phoenix from the ashes of military defeat? I regard everyone as a German who loves the language of Goethe as his own, and who is resolved to build up the State on the foundations laid by Frederick the Great, Stein and Bismarck. To view the concept of Germanism otherwise in these days, seems to me affected, as very few of our countrymen could boast that they had not a single drop of Latin blood in their veins. The idea of nationality is for me a historical one. They are German that feel themselves historically German."

"Our Republic needs men of character and resolution, who will set themselves against this anti-Semitic lunacy before it leads to further disaster. Bismarck's views on this matter were quite other than those of his pretended adherents in the ranks of German nationalism, who praise the Iron Chancellor and destroy his achievement. It is well known that Bismarck said he would be glad if one of his sons married a Jewess. He felt himself strong enough to absorb the Jewish gifts and failings as well as Jewish blood into the melting-pot of national historical development."

"Let us hope that in the German Republic there will be one rivalry between Christians and Jews, and that will be for the credit of rendering the greatest services to the Fatherland. An essential condition for this is however, that the German people should for the future judge the services of their eminent men by purely practical standards, and not by religion or racial origin."

From the article which I have quoted we see the attitude of the anti-Semites of the old Germany. They openly declared the fear of Jewish superiority, they at least had the merit of frankness, they knew that "Jews are like everybody else—only more so."

Jingle Bells, Jingle Bells. . . . Christmas is in the air, with crisp tingling mornings, your breath in steam, and snow on the housetops. . . . It's a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year I'm wishing you all, or perhaps I should substitute the word Channukah for Christmas. . . . Anyway, the spirit is there and so are the wishes for a year chuck full of health, happiness and exciting thrills. . . . I am telling you this a week before Christmas, because this paper has been coming out so late that by the time it gets to you my news items are as stale as last week's bread. . . . Have to talk to the boss and find out why it's been coming out on Monday instead of Friday as it really should. . . . Boy, have the new car owners swamped me this week. . . . Take a look at this powerful list of insurance potentialities. . . . Devera Cohen, a Pontiac sedan, in which she may take a nice long trip down through Texas. . . . Leon Ehrlich, a Chevy sedan. . . . Benny Friedman, over at the State House, an Oldsmobile sedan. . . . Seems like they're all sedans. . . . Then there is Harold Jaffe with a new Packard coupe. . . . David Lurvey, a Dodge coupe. . . . L. R. Leventhal, a La Salle sedan. . . . J. A. Goodman, a Plymouth sedan. . . . Dr. Sidney Aronson, a La Salle sedan. . . . Tell me prosperity has not come back with a bang. . . . Up there is the best evidence. . . .

Home

A lot of youngsters have come back with a bang from college, also. . . . Like Florence Lustgarten from Ward Belmont in ole Nashville, Tenn., and she's already got a Southern accent. . . . Anita Cohen from Gaucher College, Baltimore, Md., and simply crazy about college life. . . . And Jacqueline Wolf from Wellesley, Charles Feibleman from Harvard and Rachel Feibleman from Radcliffe. . . . And while on this name may I offer my sincere sympathy to the Feibleman family on child, William Selig Pekarky, in Grand Rapids last week-end. Mrs. Levin will remain with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Pekarsky, for several weeks the untimely death of Ella Feibleman. . . . The funeral service conducted from the Temple had a very large attendance, the most the writer has ever seen. . . .

Jewish Choir

By the way, have you noted the new choir singers at the Temple? . . . Mrs. Arthur Fairbanks, Mrs. Gertrude Hahn, Mrs. Edgar Kiser, Mrs. Sidney Maholowitz, Mrs. Philip Efreymson. . . . All Jewish, just as I forecast several weeks back. . . . And very, very good, too! . . . Morrie Feuerlicht, Jr., who is with Huxel's Department Store, in Baltimore, Md., will visit his folks and friends over the Christmas holidays. . . . It's so easy to see people on the street these days to write about. . . . The stores are crowded and people are hurrying, scurrying, buying, and selling. . . . The exchanging will come later. . . . Sid Seligman in the front of the post office and a word about what he has been doing, and not much except raising a new mustachio. . . . Bess Robbins (state representative) brief case in hand and ready for the session. . . . Si Lipman in the Security Trust Company. . . . Raymond Rawitch scurrying from Dee Jewelry Company over to Hickok Drug Company for a "coke." . . . Senator Jake Weiss talking intently to a government official. . . . Meyer Weisman up in Chicago attending osteopathy school and quitting the drug business. . . . Abe Bortz and Alex Bell making their daily pilgrimage over to Haag's for dinner. . . . Janet Lambarger and Sid Salinger and his wife in a Toddle House. . . .

Temple Celebration

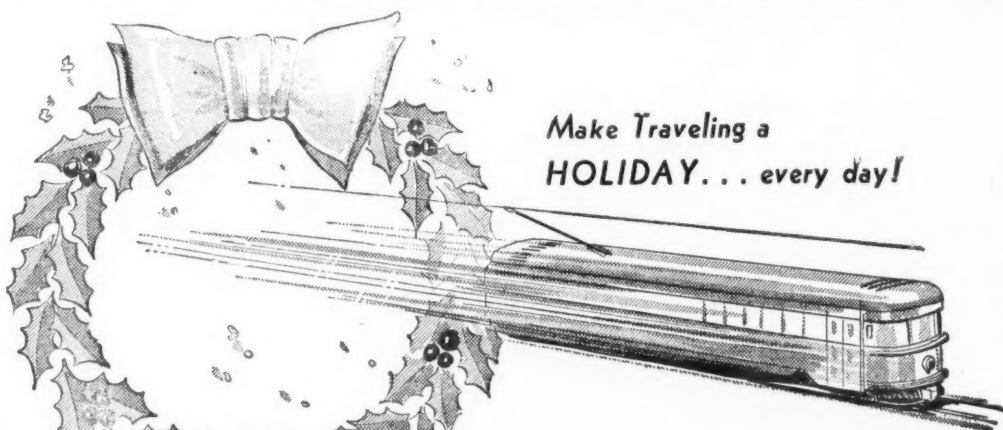

By the by, if you haven't already done so, don't forget to send in your reservation for the 80th anniversary dinner of the Temple at the Columbia Club. . . . December 29th is the date and a lot of fun for all is promised. . . . Sunday night up at the Lincoln Hotel with the Iota Nu boys. . . . and what a swell dance. . . . The happiest, most care-free group yet to dance this season. . . . The spirit of "devil may care" with everyone free, easy and congenial was worth seeing. . . . None of the stiff collar, restrained atmosphere as seen sometimes at dances. . . . As one trades his way in between the tables, "cabaret style" and shakes his head, "howdy do" here and there he can't help but spot, Milton Singer and Sally Maurer, Lou Fink and Mary Lapinska, Abe Stern and Ruth Cohen, Meyer Maierson and Lenore Needleman, Harry Cooper and Ann Lehner who were receiving congratulations on their announced engagement, Herb Larman and company, whom I don't know, Dave Tavel and Evelyn Epstein, Mr. and Mrs. William Napierstick. . . . Then over there are my two good friends, Julius Salmon and Celia Larman, also George Breman and Carolyn Strauss, Marion Berger with a big steel magnate, Bok Kroot, and Lou Silver going berserk, and running amuck, breaking dishes, glasses and what not. . . . Then over there is Bill Levin smoothly gliding on the floor with Lillian Kay on his arm, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Cohen, not to mention Morrie Freeman of Lafayette up to his old tricks, scaring the females with toy bugs and such, Stanley Larman and Rosalie Levenson, Paul Brody and Ruth Klor, Mr. and Mrs. Loverman of Nashville, Tenn., Julius Herman and Rose Burnstein, and what's this Edward Goodman is doing out there on the floor? . . . Yep, acting kittenish and taking off Ethel Caplan's shoe. . . . Bee Nathanson and Morris Singer together again. . . . There were about 100 couples present swinging to the swing music of Louie Partello and his orchestra. . . . "Cokes" could be had for the asking (and 10c) and who was that, that said something about "spikes." . . . Must have been talking about the railroad kind. . . . I dislike to leave anyone out of the social sneakup, checkup but I just don't have the room for any more names. . . . Oh, all right, I'll squeeze in a couple more. . . . Such as Lena Brodsky and Frank Barrett, Ben Gorinstein and his wife, Herman Burnstein, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kollinger, Morrie Greenburg, Louis Silver and not to forget Ruby Sagalowsky, who packs a mean right hand. . . . Zukor Feted By Hollywood Film Stars As 600 Attend Silver Jubilee

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—This week's dinner given by the Motion Picture Academy honoring Adolph Zukor was a sort of preview, there being but six hundred guests. The real Silver Jubilee will be spread by Paramount in January. However, the try-out was a great success... everybody arrived on time... except Zukor. His stage entrance brought down the house with a terrific ovation. Among the numerous celebrities was Mary Pickford, his first star. And Marguerite Clark (remember her?), Zukor's second star of silent days, made the trip from New Orleans especially for this occasion. She hasn't been inside a studio since 1920.

George Jessell m. c'd the affair with sparkling wit. One introduction was, "The next speaker will be my wife's best husband... Joe Schenck!" Schenck retorted, "I won't refute that statement." Joe Lewis who followed, remarked, "I enjoyed every hour of Mr. Lasky's talk." Irving Berlin sang "Alexander's Rag Time Band," which he composed in 1911. Jack Benny, George Burns, and Bert Wheeler sang a take-off on Zukor, Zanuck and Mayer.

Zukor, visibly nervous, (after all, this is his first Silver Anniversary), recalled many incidents of his career. He told how, years ago, he signed up Mary Pickford. Then one evening, took her out to dinner and had it so arranged that when they emerged from the restaurant, her name would flash from a theatre across the street. It was the first time she had ever seen her name in marquee lights. Marguerite Clark, in those days, was playing on the stage... Zukor tried to get her on contract, but her sister was opposed to pictures and refused to let him see her. He finally reached Miss Clark, convinced her, and thenceforth she remained in the movies, never returned to the stage. He also spoke of his earlier struggles, working in a fur shop. "Then he handled Kolinsky," he said, "Now he's handling Crosby!"

The one "blue" note of the evening was the complete oblivion of "Uncle" Carl Laemmle. Retired, but still one of the great figures of the industry, he sat looking on. He was neither introduced nor asked to speak.

Paul Graetz... filmacting for Warner's... is a German-Jewish exile from Naziland. His experiences, they say, would stand your hair on end.

Jack Moss, Gary Cooper's manager, was married the other day. Jack was so excited that he shaved twice in one hour. At last, he got to the rabbi... the bride was there... everyone else had arrived, except the best man, Gary. When the long-legged star finally rushed in, Moss greeted him, "Well, Gary, you're late... as usual holding up production!"

Odds n' Ends: Believe it or ask Ripley—Mischka Auer is his own uncle! Carl Laemmle, Jr., bought the world rights for "Nine Officers," but it seems Germany is going right ahead producing it. Hitler makes his own rules. The Mankiewicz boys went to New York to attend the dinner in honor of their father, Dr. Frank Mankiewicz, who has just been made professor of education at City College. Anent George Givot's remodeled nose, a wag calls it Grecian—once removed. Peter Lorre's eardrum was damaged in flight from the east to Hollywood.

A certain independent producer received a bill from his lawyer. One item read: "To waking up in the middle of the night and thinking of your case—$50."

Anti-Red Fight Is Not For Jews

By Rabbi Philip S. Bernstein

The Catholic church is engaged in a vast crusade against Communism. Wise tacticians are directing it and varying the attack according to local conditions. In some places, Jews have been invited to enlist in the offensive.

This raises some serious questions. For there are good reasons why Jews should express themselves publicly on Communism. In the first place, Communism is anti-religious. It has completely destroyed Judaism in Russia and will do the same wherever it rules. For this reason religious Jews can never support it even if its social philosophy should appeal to them. With deep feeling and genuine conviction they could denounce it.

Because no dominant group ever surrenders without a fight, a Communist revolution would mean violent bloodshed followed by ruthless dictatorship. These are contrary to Jewish traditions and the espousal of such a program by Jews would act as a boomerang upon them.

There are many Christians especially in Europe but also in this country to whom Jew and Communist are synonymous. Without any desire to pussyfoot, the Jews could in a manner both straightforward and statesmanlike present facts to prove how erroneous this idea is.

There are, I repeat, good reasons why Jews could express themselves on Communism. Nevertheless, I am strongly opposed to participating in the Catholic campaign.

To begin with, I regard Fascism as a greater menace to human welfare than Communism. However much I may deplore what is happening in Russia, I know that the Soviet regime has granted its three million Jews a more complete social, economic and political equality than they enjoy in any other country.

Apart from this there is something about Red baiting I don't like. The masses are tragic victims of exploitation and poverty. They have a real grievance against the social order in which they live. The Communists have been ready to make that grievance vocal and to organize it into a program of action.

Even if their methods do not appeal to us, we must honor them for their genuine concern for the masses and their readiness to do

Rabbi Gets Gift of Glass Window

HARTFORD, Conn. (Spl.)—A rabbi has been honored by the Christian community in which his synagogue is located in an episode which is undoubtedly unique in the annals of American good-will.

As a tribute to Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman of this city, churches and prominent non-Jewish Connecticut citizens have erected a stained glass window in the vestibule of Congregation Beth Israel of Hartford.

"This is our answer to the pagan anti-Semitism which is burning so cruelly in some parts of the world," said Dr. John Milton Phillips of the First Church of Hartford in making the presentation. "Anti-Semitism brings grievous suffering to the Jew but it destroys the very heart of Christianity with its Law of Love. We want none of it here."

Central in the window is the figure of the Prophet Malachi who holds in his hand the inscription in Hebrew, "Have we not all one Father, hath not one God created us?" It was dedicated this fall at a special service at which hundreds stood for want of seats and hundreds were turned away for want of space.

The occasion of the presentation was the completion by the rabbi of ten years of service in Hartford. Rabbi Feldman is a graduate of the Hebrew Union College and a member of the board of managers of Synagogue and School Extension of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The list of contributors to the fund which made the new window possible was headed by Governor Wilbur Cross of the State of Connecticut and included people of every religious denomination as well as many churches which contributed as organizations. The presentation was made to Rabbi Feldman at a luncheon of the ministers of the community by the Rev. Dr. John Milton Phillips, pastor of the First Church of Hartford.

something about it. To employ one's energies against them—and in this country they are an insignificant and impotent minority—instead of against the injustices from which the masses suffer, is unfair and hypocritical.

Jews, certainly religious Jews, have something to say about Communism but they should say it in their own way and free from en-

Beer Baron

Is it true, Jacob Ruppert, what they're saying about you?... That you're the "angel" behind a new anti-Nazi cultural group comprising Americans of German descent... And that Dorothy Waring, who billed herself as chief undercover investigator for the Congressional Committee which a couple of years ago investigated Nazi subversive activities, has been employed by you in a confidential capacity in connection with that organization....

Overheard: Henry Littleton, automobile finance man, is now the wealthiest Jew in America... And that's admitted by those who have hitherto been ranked on the number one money rung....

Wouldn't be at all surprised if Dr. Felix Cohen, young, blond, brilliant son of Prof. Morris R. And has been spending quite a lot of his time on Indian reservations... Felix, incidentally, used to play tennis with our boss... And trimmed the pants off of him more often than not....

Fat Chance

Somebody in Poland who's interested in marketing Polish products to American Jews has pulled the neatest blunder of the year... The product sent over for marketing here was goose fat... it's kosher... But you wouldn't think it from the label... Which reads boldly and bluntly, "Goose Lard"... The explanation being that the Pole's literal translation of lard is fat... But what the translator forgot to note was that it's not only tangling alliances. Their primary concern should be to right the wrongs which make Communism possible.

Heroes Are Recalled By Play of Star

By MORRIS WEINER

NEW YORK (JTA)—Marshall Goldberg, the spearhead of the Pittsburgh juggernaut that will clash with a powerful Washington eleven in the grand climax of the football season—the Rose Bowl Game—is by no means the first Jewish moleskin warrior to wind up a yearly pigskin parade in the battle that ballyhoo has termed the Tournament of the Roses. However, he is the youngest of the Jewish lads who have been called to this outstanding grid scrap.

To begin with the activities of Jewish athletes in this January 1 tilt, we have to go back to 1929 when the rambling wreck of Georgia Tech and the Golden Bears of California were tossings each other around with reckless abandon before a capacity audience of 89,000. Benny Lom, California halfback, was the hero—although he didn't score a point. He was involved in one of the strangest plays that the game has ever known.

The play came late in the second quarter. The Engineers had the ball on their own forty yard line. An off-tackle play was called for. The Tech ball carrier smashed into the line; was hit with tremendous force and dropped the ball. Roy Riegels, pivot man for the Bears and a snapper-backer of extraordinary ability was backing up the line. As soon as the ball was dropped he had scooped it up. (In those days a fumble was a free ball.) Trying to elude tacklers, Riegels was spun around and started to run for the goal line of the Engineers. Riegels was putting everything he had into his historic dash towards the wrong goal line when Lom pulled the most spectacular play of the year by tackling his own teammate before Riegels was about to score for Georgia Tech.

Lom, of all-American calibre, was seen in the East but once. Playing against Penn he ran back the opening kick-off 58 yards and later passed for the winning touchdown.

Before we continue may we say that we had sincerely believed our books on the 1936 season closed with the publication of our recent Jewish all-American football team. But, when the sport writers selected Pitt as the outstanding team in the East and awarded that spunky team the Lambert Trophy, and when Washington invited them to the Bowl for the New Year's Day game we felt that one more column on this colorful sport would not be amiss—especially in a year when Jews have been most prominent on the gridiron; when one of the most feared and respected players is a young Jewish sophomore and, because we have had so many requests concerning Jews in the Rose Bowl games.

But since that time when Lom's tackle saved Riegels' run from a parallel niche with that of Merkle's boner, many Jewish athletes have played on the same field. Marchmont Schwartz, the Notre Dame star, was the bulwark of the Rock-

Untermeyer Asks Ford To Disavow Biased Workers

NEW YORK (JTA)—Samuel Untermeyer, president of the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League, last week telegraphed Henry Ford calling his attention to the fact that his repudiated book, "The International Jew," is being sold in New York in a 1936 edition under a Berlin imprint.

Mr. Untermeyer asked "unqualified disavowal of any knowledge or authority on your part for the publication and distribution of this present German book."

The Anti-Nazi League also wired Rep. John McCormack, who headed the recent congressional investigation into un-American activities, asking steps to prohibit the sending of propaganda into the United States intended to stir racial hatreds.

The investigation disclosed that new editions of Henry Ford's repudiated book, "The International Jew," are appearing and that copies are being sold here.

The telegram to Mr. Ford charged that W. J. Cameron, an officer of the Ford Company, was affiliated with the anti-Semitic Anglo-Saxon Federation of America and Fritz Kuhn in Ford's employ, was connected with the Nazi paper, Deutsche Wekruf und Beobachter.

Home 7 Years Old Pays $80,000 Debt

PORTLAND, Maine (Spl.)—The Jewish Home for Aged here celebrated the burning of its mortgage here Sunday with an impressive ceremony.

The cornerstone was laid in 1929, and since then the organization has freed itself of its $80,000 debt. Last August a hospital unit was formally dedicated.

Eighty-four per cent of American Jews live in cities of more than 100,000 population.

Jews established a religious congregation in Montreal as early as 1768.

Taft's Associates to Complete Memorial to Jewish Heroes

CHICAGO (Spl.)—When Lorado Taft, world famous sculptor, lay stricken with the heart attack which caused his death, his chief anxiety was the possibility that the memorial on which he had been working—a group showing George Washington and the two Jews who financed the Revolutionary War, Robert Morris and Haym Solomon—would not be completed. The last wish he expressed was that this work be carried on after his death and when assured that this would be done, he said, "I can now die happy."

Conforming with this promise, five persons who had worked with the great sculptor for many years organized themselves into a group which they called the Lorado Taft Associates for the purpose of completing the monument, and formal announcement has been made by the Patriotic Foundation of Chicago.

The purpose of the monument is to pay additional tribute to the memory of Washington and at the same time honor Washington's fellow patriots, Morris and Solomon, and to foster the knowledge among all American citizens that nonmilitary as well as military persons contributed an important share to the success of the war for inde-

Fortune From American Kin
WARSAW (JTA)—The death of a rich brother in Philadelphia has raised Chaim Wolf Greenstein, a Jew living in the town of Stedrin, from poverty to comparative wealth.

Greenstein announced that he is to inherit $150,000 as the only heir of Morris Greenstein, Philadelphia clothing merchant, who died recently unmarried. He was 52 years old.

The Stedrin Jew said he had not heard from his rich brother in many years.

Judge's Birthday Observed In Shul

SEATTLE, Wash. (Spl.)—In the first such ceremony in Seattle's history, Justice Charles E. Claypool, a minister's son, celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary in a ceremony at Herzl Congregation, of which he is the only honorary member.

Justice Claypool, a leader in St. Mark's Cathedral today, in his boyhood remembers that he sang in the choir of a synagogue. He doesn't think it odd that his birthday should be celebrated in the shul.

"My honorary membership in Herzl Congregation marks no new infatuation for the Jew," he said. "I became interested in the synagogue's work through Rabbi Langh, who invited me to speak on marriage. That evening I heard an announcement of his lecture course. It sounded interesting. I never missed a lecture in four years."

U. Students Get Books

CINCINNATI (Spl.)—National Jewish fraternities, B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations, university Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s, in addition to other campus organizations, will be supplied with copies for free distribution of Dr. Abraham Cronbach's tract "The Social Outlook of Modern Judaism," according to an announcement by Rabbi Julius Mark of Nashville, chairman of the committee on religious work in universities of the Central Conference of American Rabbis.

Lutherans In Strong Stand On Anti-Jewish Bias

NEW YORK (JTA)—An appeal to Lutheran pastors and church leaders from representatives of the five synods of the American Lutheran conference to "take a firm stand against slander and falsehood" being disseminated against the Jews in America was made public last week by the signers.

It deplored "anti-Semitism in whatever form it may take as incompatible with the doctrines of the Bible and hostile to the confession and teaching of the Lutheran church as well as inconsistent with our heritage of liberty and fair play."

The statement called attention to the "persistent campaign of Jew hatred" carried on by foreign agencies, augmented by so-called Fundamentalists and fed by thousands of pamphlets, books, periodicals and radio addresses.

Signers of the appeal are Reverends S. L. Tallakson, Gideon Olson, C. M. Videback, A. W. Walck and J. R. Gronseth. It was adopted Dec. 14 at a meeting of the Lutheran conference, which represents 1,060 pastors, 6,251 congregations and 2,396,623 members.

Jr. Hadassah Meet To Get Large Budget

NEW YORK (Spl.)—Junior Hadassah, the Young Women's Zionist Organization of America, raised more than $65,000 during 1936 for its projects in Palestine, according to the annual report to be submitted to the delegates at the thirteenth annual convention of the organization, scheduled for December 25 to 28 at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C. The amount raised was $6,000 above the budget.

The delegates will be asked to accept a 1937 budget of $75,500 for Junior Hadassah's Palestinian projects, an increase of 26 per cent over the budget of this year. The sum of $10,000 of next year's funds will be applied to the enlargement of Meier Shfeyah, the Palestinian children's village maintained by Junior Hadassah. After its expansion the home-school, which now has 115 boys and girls, will have facilities for 150.

HEROES ARE

(Continued From preceding page) ne attack when the Irish met Southern California. It was the game of the century with 90,000 watching the outstanding teams of the year. Marchy passed to Caridea for the first touchdown. He threw a lateral to O'Connor which resulted in a 69-yard run for another score. Later he broke loose for a run of 50 yards and another tally. He averaged 8.8 yards every time he carried the ball. Notre Dame won 27-0.

Freddy Sington, the superb tackle from Alabama, played his last game of football for his Alma Mater on the Rose Bowl gridiron. Aaron Rosenberg, guard on the Southern California eleven in 1933, is another all-American man with a Rose Bowl game under his belt. Morris Bodenger, tackle for Tulane; Herb Fleishacker, Stanford; Leroy Goldberg, Alabama; Izzy Weinstock, predecessor to Marshall Goldberg, is still another.

It seems more than mere coincidence that the year each of these Jewish ball players were chosen as all-American players by all the pickers, their teams were also chosen for the Rose Bowl game.

There are approximately 86,000 volumes in the library of Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati.

Chanukah Candle Burns Shul Mortgage

SEATTLE, Wash. (Spl.)—The flame of the first Chanukah candle last week was used to light the mortgage of Seattle's newest synagogue, Machzikay Hadath Shul, at a celebration in the new, two-story, $10,000 house of worship dedicated two years ago.

B. Cohn, president, and G. Rubin, former president, burned the mortgage formally. The shul is the only one of Seattle's seven synagogues which is entirely free of debt.

of the loyalty of the Jews in Germany; that during the empire Jews helped to unify Germany and to make it stronger; they forget that during the war a percentage of Jewish youth gave their lives for the Fatherland, and Jewish scientists and men of affairs helped so notably to enable Germany to prolong the struggle. Instead, the Jewish people are used as the scapegoat by blaming them for all the adversity which the German people had to undergo.

So great is the hatred of the Hitlerists for the Jewish people that the Leipzig statue of the great German Jewish musician and composer, Mendelssohn-Bartholdy was razed at the command of the Brown Shirts.

What a childish move it is for

Nazis 'Aryanize' Handel Operetta

BERLIN (Spl.)—Nazi newspapers report that Handel's majestic oratorio, "Judas Maccabeus," has been "Aryanized" by a Nazi poet, working under the orders of the minister of propaganda and enlightenment. The new text will be called "Heroes of Peace."

The Catholic newspaper, "Germania," protested against the mutilation of the oratorio in the terms, "Is not the example of Judas Maccabeus a clear example of sincere religious heroism which should be shown to all human beings?"

NEW JEWISH NOVEL

NEW YORK (Spl.)—S. J. Agnon's great Hebrew novel, "The Bridal Canopy," best known work of the famous Hebrew author, has been translated into English and will be published this spring. It was announced here. Doubleday, Doran & Co., are the publishers.

The cross was used as a religious symbol centuries before the Christian era.

Max Steiner, Selznick International's musical director, has been awarded the much-coveted ribbon of the French Academy, a recognition seldom awarded outside of France. The award was made for no specific work, but for his general services to the musical world.

Jewish school buildings in the United States represent an investment of approximately $20,000,000.

Only eleven American cities have a Jewish population in excess of 50,000.

a hostile clique of betrayers of their country's cultural tradition to imagine that the removal of a statue will be able to eradicate from the soul of Germany and from the consciousness of music-loving men and women the world over the memory and works of Mendelssohn. It is merely showing how unreasoning is the madness of those in control of the Reich.

In conclusion may I say that Hitler overlooked the fact that the Jews have at least a four-thousand year tradition behind them to the Nazis' three-year regime. Looking from the height of forty centuries, the Jew has seen nation after nation rise to power and go down. Israel has been enslaved, seemingly beyond all possibility of recovering a national existence, yet regained place. Egypt, Assyria, Persia and Rome held the Hebrews yet the latter are still in existence as a distinct race, while their conquerors have but pages of history.

"Thus saith the LORD, Who giveth the sun for a light by day,

And the ordinances of the moon and of the stars for a light by night,

Who stirreth up the sea, that the waves thereof roar,

The LORD of hosts is His name: If these ordinances depart from before Me,

Saith the LORD, Then the seed of Israel also shall cease

From being a nation before Me for ever."
